

Croydon Camera Club Newsletter – 15 December 2019

Chairman's Viewpoint

This will be the last newsletter of the year. Indeed, the decade. The club is now in its annual Xmas and New Year break and when we return in January, we shall be looking forward to our 130th anniversary in March. An impressive achievement. Local magazine, Heron, has recently started the celebrations with an article about the club. A link to the online version is below. In addition, Andy Bennett will be bringing some copies to our next meeting on 8 January 2020.

Congratulations go to Jack Bates, Wally Conquy, David Newman and Iggy Tavares who all scored a maximum 10 points in the 2nd round of the print competition.

We have now had two rounds each for both our print and DPI competitions. Included with this newsletter are the running totals so far. For those unfamiliar with the club's scoring system, each entrant's top two images count towards the score for each round. When assessing the overall total, the lowest scoring round is discarded. Consequently, the current positions might not reflect the number of points accumulated. It means that a poor round does not jeopardise the chances of winning and helps maintain interest until the final round. Very often, the outcome can remain uncertain until the end of the season.

I would also like to remind everyone of the forthcoming SPA Biennial Exhibition, entries for which close at the end of January. The break is a good opportunity to start reviewing images and deciding which ones to enter. Details were sent out in a separate newsletter and are also available on our club's forum:

All that remains for me is to wish everyone a Happy Xmas. Our next newsletter will be published early in the New Year.
